

Imitating the Music of a Cascade.
Certain tribes on the Amazon have been fascinated by the music of the waterfall. Musical instruments were found in use among them consisting of a complicated mechanism by which water was poured from one bowl into another, in imitation of the cascade, and then returned by the receiving bowl into the vessel which had poured it, so that by a repetition of this mechanism a constant murmur of a cascade could be kept up so long as the audience desired or the player was able to perform it.

London's Postal Service.
So complete are the postal arrangements of London that there is not a house more than 200 yards from a letter box or 400 from a postoffice and money order office. There are over 10,000 pillar boxes (we call them letter boxes, which are cleared every hour from 10 in the morning till 5 in the evening, and there are twelve deliveries a day in the city.

A Tiddler.
A lady who had a pet macaw used to allow it to take bits of food from between her lips. One day it perched on her shoulder, as usual, but instead of taking the tidbit she offered him he poked a nice, fat, green caterpillar between her lips.

Cautious.
"Have you got any corned beef?" asked the guest.
"An't know about it," said the conscientious waiter, "is that it looks like beef and it's corned. Wish some?"—Chicago Tribune.

It is a good thing for a young man to try to make his mark in the world so long as he uses something besides red paint in doing it.—Syracuse Herald.

More Than Tragic.
"You played nothing but tragedies," said the friend.
"They were worse than tragedies," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes as he stopped figuring his expense account. "They were financial catastrophes."—Washington Star.

When hope looks backward, it is transformed into regret.

CURES WHEN DOCTORS FAIL.
Mrs. Frank Chissom, Patterson, Ill., writes June 8th, 1901: "I had malaria fever in very bad form, was under treatment by doctors, but as soon as I stopped taking their medicine the fever would return. I used a sample bottle of Herbine, and it cured me. Then I bought two bottles, which completely cured me. I feel grateful to you for furnishing such a splendid medicine, and can honestly recommend it to those suffering from malaria, as it will surely cure them. Herbine, 50c bottle at J. M. Jones.

A civil war is a very unenviable affair.

FOR THOSE WHO LIVE ON FARMS.
Dr. Bergin, Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns." Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, lacerations and bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency. 25c, 50c and $1.00 at J. M. Jones.

Never drink water after drinking whiskey.

WORLD WIDE REPUTATION.
White's Cream Vermifuge has achieved a world wide reputation as being the best of all worm destroyers, and for its tonic influence on weak and unthrifty children, as it neutralizes the acidity or sourness of the stomach, improves their digestion, and assimilates of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. 25c at J. M. Jones.

All theological argument is not logical.

SPRING AILMENTS.
There is an aching and tired feeling; the liver, the bowels and kidneys become sluggish and inactive, the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything, and feeling that the whole body and mind needs toning up. The trouble is, that during winter, there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will remove it, secure the secretions a right exit, and by its tonic effect, fully restore the wasted tissues and give strength in place of weakness. 50c at J. M. Jones.

Fast men are generally very slow in paying debts.

WON'T FOLLOW ADVICE AFTER PAYING FOR IT.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by a natural and healthy condition. For sale by all druggists.

Silence is a mighty good substitute for wisdom.

WHOOPING COUGH.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: "Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which is sold by all druggists, is for sale by all druggists.

GLADSTONE'S ORATORY.

One Critic Likens It to the Rushing of Waters in a Tempest.

Gladstone was a great financier and perhaps the very greatest expositor of finance who ever lived. He had a magical influence over masses of men and a power of words the effect of which was more like that of huge masses of water in a tempest than anything else. His Midlothian speeches made one think less of a river coming down than of the sea coming up. His skill in constructing a difficult measure was not even approached by any man of his time and perhaps was never exceeded by any man at any time.

These and many other merits we must freely allow him, but when the final estimate of him is made many traits must be introduced and not least his extraordinary power of believing precisely what he wished to believe. He had a tender conscience, but, save only where finance was concerned, he had that conscience thoroughly under command. If it showed the slightest recalcitrancy, his will was always ready to say, "Just you dare!"

And yet when all has been said for and against him there can be no doubt that he will remain the most notable Englishman of his generation—as much out of place among the Liberals as Disraeli was among the Conservatives, but, like him, a head and shoulders above all his rivals and as much superior to Disraeli himself in most of the higher arts of statesmanship as that immensely clever child of Israel was superior to him in all its secondary arts.

The Seven Golden Cities. One of the most popular legends of the latter part of the dark ages, were said to be situated on an island west of the African coast. The island is represented as abounding in gold, with magnificent houses and temples, "the high towers of which shone at a great distance."

The legend also relates that at the time of the conquest of Spain and Portugal by the Moors, when the inhabitants fled in every direction to escape slavery, seven bishops, followed by a great number of people, took to ships and put boldly out on the high seas. After tossing about for some time they landed on an unknown island, the famous spot which in after years became the seat of the "Seven Golden Cities." "This island," Heylyn says, "was exactly in midocean." After all had landed safely the wise old bishops burned the ships to prevent their followers from deserting and founded the cities which have become so famous in song and story. This mysterious island was often sought by the early navigators. Those who went in search of it and never returned were popularly believed to have been detained by its inhabitants.

Wouldn't Commit Himself.

There is in a town in the north of England a certain preacher of liberal antecedents who considers himself to be a speaker of perfect English, but who is generally credited with the possession of as rich a brogue as can be found anywhere in Tipperary.

Some mention was made of his peculiar pronunciation at a church meeting, which greatly angered him. He immediately called upon one of the members and, after complaining of the injustice done him, asked him whether in his opinion a single trace of the brogue was to be observed in his speech.

"Well," his friend answered, "if you wish to deny it I should advise you to do so in writing."—London Answers.

The Polonized Arrow.
"An arrow studded with the most costly of stones, tipped at both ends with pure virgin gold and headed with the feathers of the rarest birds." Such is the description given of the "Polonized arrow," which in 1434 was presented to Sir John Dalecourt by a Spanish gentleman. This wonderful arrow was made in 1204 by an ancestor of the Spaniards, and every stone and jewel with which it was set was said to represent a human life cut short through its instrumentality. The stones indicated the number of men to whom it had carried death, while the curiously fashioned gold and silver jewels represented the women who had fallen under its poisoned point.

How to Sharpen a Carving Knife.
A carving knife needs to have a different kind of an edge from a razor. The steel which ordinarily accompanies a carving knife and fork is very well to give a finishing touch to the edge, but an ordinary whetstone, such as a reaper uses for his scythe or sickle, is the most useful implement a carver can keep at hand. One or two rubs on each side of a knife whet it up mightily, and then two or three finishing touches from the steel and the knife is in order to do most excellent execution.

The White Shark.
The most dreaded and ferocious shark now in existence is the great white shark of tropical waters. It is the man-eater par excellence. Specimens have been captured which measured forty-two feet in length. Whether it has done so or not, this frightful creature would certainly have no difficulty in literally swallowing a man whole.

RIPANS

I had been troubled a year, off and on, with constipation, biliousness and sick headaches. Nothing seemed to do me any good. One day a friend asked me what the trouble was. When I told him he recommended R-I-P-A-N-S Tablets. That evening I got a box, and after the second box I began to feel so much relief that I kept on with them. I have Ripans Tablets always in the house now and carry a package of them in my pocket.

One gives relief.
